

Women Of AMC

Sandy Busque, Connecticut

by: Casey McGowan

Sandy Busque hails from West Hartford, Connecticut, and is the owner of this super-sharp 1987 Eagle Station Wagon. Sandy is a newcomer to the AMC hobby, having owned the Eagle a little over a year. Her father owned several Ramblers through the years while she was growing up, so she has Red/White and Blue running through her veins.

Her husband, Brad, owns a 1965 red Ambassador 990 convertible which he purchased a couple of years ago. Brad found the Eagle Wagon and bought it to use as a winter driver, but Sandy fell in love with it and claimed it as her own. The car has not seen snow since she took it over. The wagon took a little tweaking on the new carburetor she installed, but it carried the couple to their first National Meet in Kenosha last year (2002) which no doubt left an impression on them and gave them a reason to become more active in club activities.

Sandy does much of the repair and maintenance of the car herself, utilizing the knowledge she acquired from a course in auto mechanics she took in school. She can do her own tune-ups and brake replacement as well as all the detailing that needs done, such as interior paint touch ups and exterior paint buffing. While at the Somerset show, she purchased an extra set of wire wheel covers for only $5.00 each just in case she loses some spokes and needs to replace them.

Sandy and Brad are members of AMCRC and belong to the Four Seasons Chapter as well as the New England Chapter. The camaraderie among club members is what she likes best as her chapter has meetings that rotate among the members' homes as well as a Christmas party each year.

I am looking forward to seeing Sandy at the National Meets next year in Nashua, New Hampshire and Scranton, Pennsylvania. Goody luck, Sandy, with your sharp Eagle.
